Our philosophy regarding compensation is to be competitive with market pay rates, to be internally equitable, and to reward employees for their contribution to the company. Our wage program is based on a pay-for-performance system. It rewards employees for various jobs and departments in which they can perform various duties on an acceptable level, and more importantly, for the level of performance they contribute.

Employees may receive pay increases at the time of their performance evaluation, if they receive a promotion, or as their performance warrants.
